Town Council Does Not Believe in Patronizing Home Industry.

Attempts To Get Square With The Enterprise For Giving Publicity To Foul Language Used in Council.

Chief of Police Tenders His Resignation.

The regular meeting of the Blairmore town council last night was attended by Mayor Beebe, Councillors Rosse, Dutil, Christophers and Lagace, and Secretary Wright.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, and a communication from the Canadian Westinghouse Co., in connection with pipe-thriving appliances was read. Secretary was instructed to write the above company, giving information asked for.

The Sun Life Assurance Co. notified the town that their debt amounting to $485.75 and interest was being deposited and desired that same be honored by the town when due.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. acknowledged receipt of blue-print showing crossing water service line, but stated that three others were required by them. Secretary was instructed to obtain same from Messrs. Woods & Steele, Pincher Creek.

A nicely drafted letter was received from Joseph Little, again going on record as protesting against the high assessment of his property and the high taxes thereon. Secretary was instructed to place same on file.

A. McLeod, chief of police, tendered his resignation, to take effect on August first. No reasons were given for his action, and the license and police committee were asked to report at next meeting.

Frank Wright asked for an increase in salary, stating that the work devolving upon him as secretary-treasurer had considerably increased. This matter was left with the finance committee to consider.

By-Law No. 51, a renewal of a former by-law authorizing the borrowing of the sum of $10,785 from the Union Bank of Canada, said amount to become a first charge against taxes to be collected within the current year, was read a first, second and third time and finally passed with the official seal and the signatures of Mayor Beebe and the Secretary-Treasurer.

The petition of G. A. Passmore for permission to erect a portable garage near Victoria Street again came up for consideration.

Christophers Rosse—That G. A. Passmore be allowed to build garage according to arrangements to be made between Mr. Passmore and the mayor.

Councillor Dutil raised strong objection to establishing such precedent and cited difficulties experienced in the past with parties being allowed to obstruct the public thoroughfares.

Councillor Rosse felt that it would be alright to allow him to erect a "transportable" garage, if agreement was entered into whereby same could be removed at any time when so ordered by the town.

Motion lost.
The Secretary informed the council that, following instructions given him by certain councillors, he had written to several establishments in other parts of the world (but not Tim Eaton's) for prices on tax no-ties and receipts, etc., and that he had received quotations from the Star Printing Co., Calgary, and Printers & Stationers, Lethbridge.

Councillor Rosse asked the Secretary if the local printing office had been asked to tender for same, and was informed that The Enterprise had been asked for a tender, but so far none had been received. Councillor Rosse asked the Enterprise representative why he did not tender and whether he could compete with the prices quoted by the OUTSIDE OF THE MUNICIPALITY CONCERNS, and was told that the local printing office did not intend quoting prices to be compared with "outside-the-town non-ratepayers."

Councillor Christophers, when asked what his object was in sending out of town for prices, stated that he "did not believe in patronizing unnecessary things," and he "did not believe in encouraging slackers in his country," and "did not encourage useless occupations."

Councillors Dutil and Rosse did not think it right to send out of town for anything that the local office could supply.

Christophers-Lagace—That the order for stationery as required be given to Messrs. Greenhouse & Hayes (Printers and Stationers), Lethbridge. Motion carried, Councillors Lagace and Christophers voting for and Councillor Dutil against.

Councillor Rosse wanted to know if there was not some means of compelling everyone to pay share of the water rates. He knew of scores of people who were making use of the town water and not paying a cent for it. He knew of others who were using water from well-slug on their own property which he felt should be put a stop to. He quoted many parties, including the mayor himself, who were not paying anything towards the upkeep of our water system.

Councillor Dutil asked as to what was being done about the tax enforcement, and was informed by the secretary that the following letter had been received from Judge McNeill on the question since the last meeting of the council:

MacLeod, Alta.,
July 5, 1917.

F. Wright, Esq.,

Dear Sir:
Re Enterprise account of council meeting. I have had no communication from you re consideration of Tax Enforcement Return. I wrote your solicitor in 1916, pointing out amendments to Act, which repeal provision providing for an appointment by judge.

Your return must now be confirmed at a sitting of the court. Read the Act.

Cheaper Poultry Feed

On account of the scarcity and high prices of feed the Poultry Industry of this country is threatened by the prospect of the wholesale slaughter of laying stock and a serious falling off in the number of pullets to be matured.

The necessity for retaining for milling every possible bushel of wheat suitable for that purpose need not be emphasized. To provide poultrymen with feed for rearing their young stock without unnecessarily lowering the supplies of milling wheat, the federal Department of Agriculture has requested millers throughout Canada to put on the market the cracked and shrunken wheat removed from grain before it is milled.

In addition to small and broken wheat these cleanings consist chiefly of the seeds of wild buckwheat, a near relative of the cultivated buckwheat. The Poultry Division of the Central Experimental Farm has used wild buckwheat in feeding experiments and reports it to be a highly satisfactory poultry feed and has ordered two cars of buckwheat screenings for the Central and Branch Experimental Farms from the Canadian Government Elevators at Fort William. Fowls used to good grain do not take to it at first but when they become accustomed to it they eat it readily and do well on it.

The mill cleanings from local flour mills also contain traces of many other weed seeds, including several kinds of mustards. These, however, would not as a rule amount to more than two or three per cent of the cleanings in the case of the standard grades of Western wheat. This material is specially recommended for backyard, suburban and professional poultrymen. On farms the cleanings from yards and poultry houses where it had been fed would have to be disposed of so as not to disseminate noxious weeds in grain fields.

Those interested in obtaining this class of feed should immediately arrange with local mills or feed dealers for a supply. The mills cannot be expected to keep this material for poultry unless it is demanded for that purpose and that rests with the poultrymen themselves.

Food Control in Great Britain

Resume of Steps Taken by the Government to Ensure Proper Supply

Growing interest is being shown all over the Dominion in food control. The following facts give what has been done in that way in Great Britain. On September 14, 1914, a little more than a month after the war broke out, a proclamation was issued prohibiting the importation of sugar from any European port. Later the government created a royal commission on the sugar supply. This commission went into the market and bought large quantities of raw sugar in various parts of the world. On October 26, 1914, the government's control was completed by the issuance of a proclamation forbidding the importation of sugar from any other country without a special license from the royal commission on the sugar supply.

In October, 1916, the government appointed a royal commission on wheat. This commission was given full power to take all steps necessary to insure adequate and regular supplies of wheat and flour, and the importation of all grain into the United Kingdom.

Recently an order known as the milling order was issued by the board of trade, fixing according to a certain schedule the percentages of flour that must be extracted from wheat of various qualities. The order required that on and after January 1, 1917, on flour milled in accordance with the schedule might be used for making bread or any other article of food. Flour mills were also required to make periodical returns of stocks of wheat.

On November 27 the government announced that a food controller would be appointed to see to it that the waste or unnecessary destruction of any specified article.

(2) Restrict and prescribe the use of any article.

(3) Regulate the manufacture and production of articles so that the public may be supplied with those articles "in the form most suitable in the circumstances."

(4) Direct the mode of sale and distribution of articles.

(5) Regulate "the market operation" in an article "with a view to preventing an unreasonable inflation of the price."

(6) Prevent the sale of an article at a price exceeding an amount named.

(7) Require the owners of stock of articles to place them at the disposal of the board on terms to be determined by arbitration in default of agreement.

(8) Compel a detailed return to be made of available supplies.

(9) Later provisions of the articles are "kept, stored, manufactured or produced," and examine the stock to test the accuracy of any return that may have been made.

Lord Devonport was appointed food controller.

At this juncture R. E. Prothero, the president of the board of agriculture, came forward with comprehensive farming plans to increase the home production of food. Under the scheme of the minister of agriculture obtained power to cultivate upon any idle land and entitle him, with or without the owner's consent, to the use of any land or agricultural land in England and Wales more than 18,000 acres is given over to growing, while less than one-fifth is used for raising cereal crops. The board of agriculture has determined that as much of this idle land as is available shall be ploughed up and planted in grain crops.

In addition to perhaps 100,000 women who are now working on the land, German prisoners of war and interned aliens have been put to work cultivating the soil, and some 15,000 skilled ploughmen have been brought back from the front.

made on February 5, 1917, when the food controller issued an appeal to the public to limit its consumption of bread and sugar, as follows: Meat ration: Meat includes bacon, ham, sausages, game, rabbits, poultry and fowl meat. The ration of two and one-half pounds per head per week means uncooked meat as bought from the butcher and includes bones and fat. Bread: Four pounds per head a week. Up to the present rationing is voluntary.

On March 15 the food controller issued a very drastic order under the defence of the realm act, declaring it to be a punishable offence for a merchant, in connection with the sale or proposed sale of any article of food, to impose a condition involving the purchase of any other article. This rule put an end to the practice of insisting that something else, usually tea, should be purchased before sugar was supplied.

Vegetable Garden

Valuable Information Secured By Government Experimental Stations

Experiments to determine the best varieties of vegetables to grow have been conducted on the Experimental Farms for many years. Seed has been secured each year from the best seedsmen in Europe and America. As a result, the lists of vegetables recommended for growing in the garden are a good guide to the gardener in purchasing his seeds.

During the past two seasons additional experiments have been added, such as trying out different distances to certain vegetables, best dates to sow, etc.

Experiments on the Scott Station with garden peas have proven that green peas are fully equal to imported seed, and that home grown seed can be saved each year. Planting for different seasons of peas each having a different season for maturing has lengthened the season for green peas to a household use by three weeks in 1916 over planting one variety at week intervals for four weeks in 1915.

Experiments with onions have shown that onion sets can be grown by using the seed freely; at least one hundred seeds, sown in a narrow row, to the fluted foot. Furthermore, results indicate that onions grown in the open are better than those in pots.

Marketing Farm Produce

By Mrs. McBeath, Headingly, Manitoba.

Our own Postal authorities here are busy extending the rural system, and on the routes already established there is quite an increasing business in postal packages—butter, fowls, turkeys, cut of meat, etc. All go quite nicely by mail. The cost is less than express and if our authorities would extend the limit of cheap rate from 20 miles to, say, 50, there would be a much bigger trade.

I may mention the success of some of my neighbors with the Parcel Post. One woman has been shipping new laid eggs all winter by mail. In January she shipped sixty dozen, mostly for invalids as one customer told others, and she cannot possibly supply the demand. In summer she sent filled chickens for which she has standing orders, also turkeys. Another woman sent roasts of pork and cuts of beef, sausage, meat, etc., and several other shipped eggs. So far there has not been a complaint, which says a great deal for our Postal Service. I dare say you all have some experience in the use of Parcel Post these times in sending things to your boys at the front, and have been surprised what you could send, so that you can see what a simple method you have right at hand to help out your marketing.

I may tell you that lately the Post Office at Winnipeg had a shipment of two carloads of mail boxes for the Rural Routes, something like 2,000 boxes, so the possibilities of wider markets are before you.

All produce nowadays must be put in attractive form if it is to command a good price, but the variety of containers now to be had is endless. There is a rule they are monotonous, which does away with much trouble and worry over the returning of the containers or boxes.

A good plan is adopted by people who club together and send orders to the country. This is a capital plan and in some instances I know of has worked out very satisfactorily. The idea was started in the use of apples. An apple grower who thought there were possibilities of selling to men in offices, so he started in by cutting up nice cartons of picked apples with the motto: "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," and delighted his customers. This led to other farm stuff being clubbed in the same way.

The saving comes in the amount sent, as express charges are less on the bigger quantity, and the produce is sold at a better price on arrival. In offices this has been tried where there are several employees. One person acts as secretary, collects the orders, sends them off, and on arrival of the goods distributes them. In only one or two cases have I heard of dissatisfaction but a change was made and another producer gave complete satisfaction. And then little circles are becoming more common. Their motto is "Fresh goods and With Gratitude."

For those who live on an automobile route there are many chances of disposing of small quantities of produce. Many of the ordinary things on a farm are dainties to the city folks, and there are many inquiries from passers-by, for eggs, butter, cream, buttermilk, chickens, sweet corn, rhubarb and berries when in season. If the use of bulletin boards naming the articles for sale became general much more business could be done in this way.

There is also the matter of private customers in town who get in on your interest's express or delivery. Opinion differs as to this method. In many cases it is unsatisfactory, because the prompt supply falls just when it is expected to go on—quality is sometimes not up to standard—difficulties of delivering on set days come extra busy on the farm. Then there are difficulties on the other side of collecting payments and getting returned empties sent back, and so on. It is not an uncommon thing too for the country woman to be done out of her goods. I heard of one woman who had fresh eggs sent to her, and after some months wrote to say she would not pay the price, as half the eggs were rotten. Just lately I heard of two women whose crocks of butter had been sent in. One woman kept her crock in a damp cellar and the butter was mouldy and refused to pay. The other kept hers under a steam pipe and declared her butter went rancid and she refused to pay. Well, there is a very simple remedy for offenders in both cases. Cut them out, and stay out with those who deal fairly. While some customers are unsatisfactory, there are others with whom it is a real pleasure to do business; considerate, punctual, and efficient; there is no trouble at all in dealing with them. I know of one such, who on receiving poultry sent in, returned two cents a pound more than the price asked, because the quality was so good, and another gentleman who paid three cents a pound for turkeys and then was asked for the same reason. Little wonder there is satisfaction on both sides there. It was a pleasure for those buyers to show their appreciation in that way, and the farm woman could not fail to feel pleasure and encouragement, which might show itself in an extra pot of cream or some other dainty popped up with the next order.

In trading, as in any other line of life, we should remember the Golden Rule: "Do to others as you would be done by"—and many of the present difficulties in marketing would disappear.

Swine Raising of Juniors

Plan Adopted in Saskatchewan to Stimulate Interest

Announcement has been made that the swine competition for juniors to be held at the winter fairs this year. Regina and Saskatoon is to be open to boys and girls of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, ranging in age from those born January 1, 1902, to those born November 1, 1907. This is the first time that anything like this has been held in the west on a large scale. The prizes amounting to $400 are to be divided equally between Regina and Saskatoon, and are given by the Swine Breeders' Association of Saskatchewan. These fairs are being held under the auspices of the Saskatchewan Live Stock Board, the one in Regina being from November 27 to November 30, and that at Saskatoon December 4 to December 7 inclusive. The pigs will be judged by the usual market standards. None will be eligible for entry which is more than eight months old. Each contestant will be limited to one entry. The association pays transport charges from points in Saskatchewan and in case the exhibitor cannot accompany his animal the association will look after its feeding, and if requested sell it at the close of the fair. The best pig of each county is the same animal cannot be shown both at Regina and Saskatoon, but an exhibitor may show different animals at both places.

Dairying in the West

Development of This Industry Making Great Strides

Until the last two or three years the attitude of the eastern dairy farmer toward the "baby" dairy industry of the western provinces was one of benevolent interest. The eastern farmer had long been taught to regard the prairie provinces as great grain growing districts, that might gradually turn to beef cattle, but in which dairy farming would not find a home for several decades to come. British Columbia, he regarded as a fruit province. Every year the eastern dairyman shipped car loads and car loads of butter and cheese for western consumption. Eastern dairymen looked on the west as a market that just naturally belonged to them. Now the easterner has received an awakening. The tables have been turned on him. Last year several car loads of butter were shipped from Alberta to Toronto and Montreal. The quality upon examination proved to be better than that of good eastern creamery butter. At the same time the eastern butter trade with "the coast" is a thing of the past. British Columbia dairymen are doing more to meet their own needs, and what they can't supply, Alberta can. Competition from the west is going to increase on eastern markets.

There is a great field for the development of dairying in western Canada, and behind of the dairy industry is the brisk, progressive spirit of the west. The eastern dairy farmer might as well here would like to sound a note of warning. There has been a tendency in the past to ship the culms of the herd to the west and the reputation of eastern dairy stock has suffered accordingly. To spoil the western market for the sake of getting rid of a few defective cattle, it is like killing the goose that may lay the golden eggs. Many thousands of splendid dairy cows have been shipped west, but there have been many culls often non-breeding females, which often Moral Family Herald.

We Accomplished Our Object

One noticeable and indeed pleasing feature about last night's meeting of the city fathers was the absence of profanity. There is no doubt in the world but that the "Useless Institution" called The Blairmore Enterprise is wholly responsible for this much-needed reform. So better criterion of the character of an individual could be had than the quality of his speech, and the language used by Councillors Lagace, Christophers and others at recent meetings of the council could not but reflect disgrace upon the households and cause the interested ratepayers to stay away from the chambers in which their affairs were being administered.

And there is still room for improvements. Councillor Christophers goes on record as the first man in history to go so far as to brand The Press "A Useless Institution." Blairmore contains some useless institutions, and Philip M. Christophers has more than one occasion proved himself possessor of all the qualifications necessary to maintain that coveted (?) title. A man who has not the principle to say as much before a man's face as he will say behind his back, and who cannot even voice himself openly in council, but resorts to the ungentlemanly method of passing his opinion about the table on a piece of folded paper, is not a fit party to be entrusted with the administration of the affairs of a municipality or any other organization.

In refusing to offer a tender to the town for printing, knowing that similar tenders were invited from institutions outside the town limits, we have but lived up to our principle. We are not patrons of, nor do we believe in the patronage of foreign institutions with money that belongs at home. The Town of Blairmore is up against a very serious financial problem, and needs every dollar that can be gathered within its limits to tide it through without the assistance of the sheriff. We are paying our rightful share towards the upkeep of the town of Blairmore, which amounts to considerably more than we ever profited from the town's printing bills, while the institution outside, which has not a cent invested in, and no interest whatever in the Town of Blairmore will naturally never be expected to contribute towards our funds.

Now the council, acting on the threat of Councillors Lagace and Christophers to get even with us, have accepted a tender from an outside establishment which is far higher than the one we have charged for a similar quantity of material. We have always supplied the town at short notice with stationery and office supplies as required, at all times in small quantities, and the town council knows no better than to strike a comparison between our retail prices and the wholesale quotations of a foreign house.

Being connected with the Canadian Press Association, the Alberta and British Columbia Press Association and the South Alberta Printers Board of Trade, we are in a position to appreciate this little boycott scheme of the local council.

On the occasion of our addressing the council last night, we were interrupted by Councillor Christophers with the remark: "You got no right to speak in this council. What we're doing here is none of your business. You had your say last year, and we got our say now," and that from an individual formerly looked upon as somewhat sane.

Norman Retracts Irwin Charges

In the little stunt which the Coleman editor (?) pulled off the Rev. Mr. Irwin, for which he secured a substantial rake-off from the liquor people of the province, which Mr. Norman always so puritanically professed to despise, Mr. Norman has now decided that the original story was not entirely correct, and in what he now calls the "Original charge," we would like to know what has become of the meeting in which Mr. Irwin made his famous declaration. How did Mr. Irwin, by climbing up on the tent, remove a flag from a pole which never existed—the object marked by an "X" being nothing but a tree. What has become of the "twenty-five ministers and fifty Methodist people" who were to be called in as witnesses? Behold, there are only six ministers and about twenty Methodists left, most of whom are children, and none of these really remember what did happen on a very insignificant occasion.

And then, Mr. Norman was so in sympathy with this newspaper act that he evidently made a special effort to place himself as near to its perpetrator as he could get. So friendly was he that a few days later, while travelling on a train with Mr. Irwin he urged him to become the Bellevue correspondent to the Pincher Creek Record. Mr. Irwin agreed, of course, understanding that payment would be on the same basis as that of the Blairmore Enterprise. A couple of budgets were sent, but Mr. Norman has not yet even offered to pay the postage. So much for the way this Puritan mud-slinger treats his friends. It can now drive this useful man from the ministry and from the province by a dirty lie, it will be one way of escaping a small debt with its accumulated interest.

Mr. Norman is fond of wondering things. We can wonder, too. We wonder if Mr. Norman was present himself on the occasion in question. We wonder if Mr. Norman would like to discover that the flag in question was taken down by somebody else, and not by Mr. Irwin at all. We wonder what he would say if he found out that the Rev. J. P. Westman, whom he cowardly now tries to eliminate, was the real cause of the flag being taken down, although a third party actually removed the flag.

Norman is a coward and a king of cowards. He resorts every legitimate move which Mr. Irwin could take to defend himself and insists on the only move which he knows Mr. Irwin cannot make. He knows that it is unwise to consider improper for a minister of the Gospel to go to law. He knows, also, that legal proceedings cost money, and that Mr. Irwin, like most men of his profession, is poor in this world's goods. He knows, too, that the people who are behind him are in a position to protect him at any cost. He knows also that they have declared that Irwin must be driven from public life and Norman is the tool that they have employed to do their dirty work. Norman will continue the lie until his contemptible purpose is accomplished, and then he will clap himself on the back to think that he has ruined a useful career and driven a wife and children into an unjust disgrace.

A Boy's Remarks To His Stomach

What the matter with you—ain't I all right? I've been a harder to you? All my pennies don't I spend in getting nice things for you? Don't I give you lots of cake? Say, stunkum, what's the matter, that you had to go and ache? Why, I bashed you with good things yesterday. I gave you more delicious soup and turkey than you'd ever had before! I gave you nuts and candy, pumpkin pie and chocolate cake. And last night when I got to bed you had to go and ache! Say, what's the matter with you? Ain't you satisfied at all? I gave you all you wanted; you was hard just like a ball. And you couldn't hold another bit of pudding, yet last night you ached most awful, stunkum; that ain't treatin' me just right! I've been a friend to you, I have; why ain't you a friend of mine? They gave me candy all last night because you made me whine. I'm awfully sick this mornin', and I'm feelin' mighty blue. Because you don't appreciate the things I do for you!

Do you treat yours like this?

The Auto Drives Dull Care Away

The auto fills a long-felt want. For it enables us to jaunt Far from the city streets, And we can breathe the country air, And hear the toll-worn farmer swear, And watch him knocking beet.

Before the auto made its bow, We seldom looked upon a cow. Or saw a setting hen, And all we knew of babbling brooks, And sylvan dells, we learned from books. We write by some weary pen.

The country seemed so far away! And when we'd toiled, the long, sad day, We could not journey there; We staid in our dismal rooms, And the city's smoke and fumes, And longed for country air.

The auto's brought the country near; And from our foreheads disappeared The frowns and the frowns; And we can take our willing wives, And put some sunshine in their lives, By jogging out of town.

Oh, we can seek the rural vale, And see the cattle wag their tails, And hear the roosters crow; And we can drink the country breeze, And wind our way around the trees, And chuckle as we go.

The auto is a boon to men; It's making old things young again. It keeps us all enthused; It makes each day a holiday, It drives the cares of life away— When it is sanely used.

Heavy Penalties for Those Who Block Com- pulsion

Ottawa, July 11.—The most important development in connection with the consideration of the military service bill in committee of the commons today was an announcement made this evening by Arthur Meighen, in the form of an amendment in regard to the penalties to be imposed for any attempt on the part of any persons to prevent the proper carrying out of the act. The penalties include fines and terms of imprisonment for any person who advises or argues that the men included in any of the classes shall disobey the law or for failure by the men affected to do so. Newspapers which publish articles designed to persuade or influence the public against the law are liable to suppression until after the war. The penalties will become effective as soon as the act is passed.

At the evening sitting Hon. George P. Graham, Colonel Taylor, of New Westminster, and Messrs. Nesbit Turf, Morphy and others strongly urged upon the government the desirability of calling out the first three classes together. They all agreed that by calling out classes one, two many youths of tender years would be secured.

Mr. Meighen quoted the opinion of General Haig to the effect that the most effective service given at the front was rendered by young lads of from 20 to 24. Col. Taylor said that while he was not disposed to dispute that statement it was not desirable that a regiment should be made up entirely of boy soldiers. The young men, he said, give steam to field operations but older men

Anglican Church

On Tuesday last the Sunday school children and their friends had a most delightful picnic on York Creek. Cars left the church at 2.30 and all were soon at their destination. Plenty of good things had been provided and these and the various games made a most enjoyable afternoon. The return was made soon after 8 p.m., and all voted the picnic a huge success.

Service on Sunday will be at 11 a.m., conducted by the Rev. H. Gray, the subject of the sermon being: "Christ's idea of Righteousness."

Sunday School at 2.30 p.m.
